INDIVIDUALLY DESIGNED

OVERVIEW
https://www.uvm.edu/cas/individually_designed_major/minor_idm

Designing an Individually Designed Major (IDMajor) or Individually Designed Minor (IDMinor) is an opportunity to receive credit for pursuing a course of study of your own choice sponsored by a faculty member.

In the College of Arts and Sciences (CAS), the IDMajor and IDMinor are nondepartmental, interdisciplinary majors and minors for those students whose academic interests in the arts and sciences are not met by the programs currently offered in CAS. It is not CAS’s intention that such a special major or minor be a program of narrow professional training. Rather, the IDMajor must lead to an intensive investigation of some broad area of human knowledge that is not presently defined by a single departmental discipline in CAS. Similarly, the course of study for an IDMinor should constitute a coherent and intensive concentration of courses consistent with the philosophy underlying liberal education.

MAJORS
INDIVIDUALLY DESIGNED MAJOR
Individually Designed B.A.

MINORS
INDIVIDUALLY DESIGNED MINOR
Individually Designed