

ENGINEERING AND MATHEMATICAL SCIENCES (CEMS)

Courses

CEMS 6010. Resrch Methds Ethics Communica. 3 Credits.

Introduction to research methods for Graduate students including the development of research questions, literature review, principles of effective written and oral technical communication, and the publishing process. Ethical issues associated with data collection, accuracy and peer-review will be addressed. Prerequisite: College of Engineering and Mathematical Sciences Graduate student.